

Lunar New Year

The Great Race	Lunar New Year
Each year's Lunar New Year is named after a different animal.	The New Year is celebrated each year on a date between January and February. This date changes every year. This year was 1 st Feb.
This comes from a legend of The Great Race where the Emperor of China raced 13 different animals.	A dragon is used in the celebrations and decorations. The dragon is said to bring luck.
This year is the year of the tiger.	The decorations often feature the colour red as this colour is lucky to Chinese people.
